President's Message

Lori Morden, President

People everywhere have become so dependant upon technology. Everywhere you go you see people checking their email via their Blackberry, working on their computers with their wireless connections, talking on cell phones and so on. Our jobs in IT are becoming busier and busier and much more important in our companies to keep everyone and everything up and running and happy.

In July I had a great opportunity to travel with my husband to Austria where he was attending a conference. Of course I had my Blackberry and he had his laptop. Every airport we landed in, Dallas/Ft. Worth, Zurich, Vienna, London, and LA you can find Hot Spots and they are crowded with users. Internet Cafés dot the world. At the conference they had almost an entire floor dedicated to PCs set up for users to check their emails and during the breaks there where long lines behind each PC with people just waiting and waiting to log on and see if They Got Mail. It seems like we just can't live without staying in contact with everyone and anyone – must have our email and cell phones!

A few reminders, the Membership Campaign is still happening. Dale Aiello was the first member to sponsor a new member and he now receives free AITP lunches for the rest of the year – CONGRATULATIONS DALE! You too can receive free lunches by bringing in a new member to AITP.

We have had some great meetings this year. In July we had Gordon Bruce from the City and County and in August we had Les Nakamura from the State. It was good to hear what is happening in the City and the State and where they are planning to go.

For September the date has been changed to Friday, September 23rd and we will be having another Quarterly Education Seminar. Kenneth Newman from American Savings Bank will be sharing with us all of his knowledge of Wireless Technology. This will be a great seminar. See the information in the Aloha Gram and on our AITP website.

September Quarterly Seminar

Join us for the Association of Information Technology Professionals (AITP) continuing Quarterly Education Series on Wireless Security featuring Kenneth Newman, Vice President of Security for American Savings Bank.

Friday, September 23

Hale Koa Hotel

Educational Seminar - Wireless Security

8:00 am - 11:30 a.m.

This first hour with Mr. Newman will cover the risks of wireless security, technical and organizational risks and risk analysis. During the second hour policy and standards will be addressed and closing out the seminar we will learn about infrastructure and deployment, specifically end user controls, network controls and remote controls.

Luncheon Meeting

Wireless Security Assessment

11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m

Mr. Newman will continue with us during our monthly luncheon meeting and discuss Wireless Security Assessment; sharing his knowledge of sample statistics, online reviews, and physical reviews.

Our speaker, Kenneth Newman is currently the Vice President of Security for American Savings Bank responsible for managing the business continuity, information security and physical security programs.

Prior to joining ASB, he worked for Deutsche Bank and Citigroup in New York. In previous roles, he has managed infrastructure security, business information risk, security product, risk consulting, investigation and perimeter operations functions.

Mr. Newman is a graduate of Columbia University's School of Engineering and Applied Sciences and has over 16 years of practical IT experience and a proven track record of more than 13 years of providing security solutions in financial services. He is a Certified Information Security Manager (CISM) and Project Management Professional (PMP) as well as being ITIL IT Service Management Foundations certified.
